StickBall West-Coast Invitational Tournament

On August 30 to September 1 come and watch the streets of Little Italy come alive with the good ol' American (East Coast) past-time: STICKBALL. Every year local teams come together to play for the right to call themselves the king of the block. The champions! Stickball emulates baseball, but is played in the street - in this case, on Colombia Street, between Ash and Cedar. Buildings, curbs, parking meters, signs and balconies are all playable in fair territory. Bronx rules are applied; no gloves allowed, the batter pitches to himself, and he gets one swing of the stick to hit the rubber ball. People play to either recapture their youth, or simply to take over the streets and have fun. Come and enjoy the taunting, heckling and great fun on Saturday and Sunday from 8 am to 6 pm on Columbia Street, between Beech and Cedar Streets, and State Street, between Ash and Beech Streets. This year's tournament is an invitational and teams from New York and Puerto Rico will attend. It's sure to be an exhilarating game.
